LETTER FROM FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.
The following letter from Florence Nightingale contains some interesting reflections upon the question of woman's work:

LONDON, Sept. 13, 1866.—To Emanuel Moser.
—My Dear Sir: I could not do what you asked me to do in your kind letter of July 12th, viz: to give you information about my own life; though I could it would be to show how a woman's very ordinary ability has been led to God—by strange and unaccounted paths—to do in His service what He did in hers. And if I could tell you all, you would see how God has done all and I nothing. I have worked hard, very hard—that is all—and I have never refused God anything, though, being naturally a very fussy person, most of my life has been distasteful to me. I have no peculiar gifts. And I can honestly assure any young lady, if she will but try to walk, she will soon be able to run the appointed course. But then she must first learn to walk, and so when she runs she must run with patience. (Most people don't even try to walk.)

1st. But I would also say to all young ladies who are called to any peculiar vocation, qualify yourselves for it as a man does—for his work.
Don't think you can undertake it otherwise.
No one should attempt to teach the Greek language until he is master of the language; and this he can become only by hard study.

2d. If you are called to man's work, do not exact a woman's privileges—the privilege of inaccuracy, of weakness, of muddleheads. Submit yourselves to the rules of business, as men do, by which alone you can make God's business succeed; for He has never said that He will give His success and His blessing to inefficiency, to sketching and unfinished work.

3d. It has happened to me more than once to be told by women (your countrywomen), "Yes, but you had personal freedom." Nothing can well be further from the truth. I question whether God has ever brought any one through more difficulties and contradictions than I have had. But I imagine these exist less among you than among us, so I will say no more.

4th. But to all women I would say, look upon your work, whether it be an accustomed or an unaccustomed work, as upon a trust confided to you. This will keep you alike from discouragement and from presumption, from idleness and from overtaxing yourself. Where God leads the way He has bound Himself to help you to the end.

I have been nine years confined a prisoner to my room from illness, and overwhelmed with business. (Had I more faith—more of the faith which I profess—I should not say "overwhelmed," for it is all business sent by God; and I am really thankful to Him, though my sorrows have been deep and many, and He still makes me do His business.)

This must be my excuse for not having answered your questions before.

Nothing with the approval of my own judgment has been made public, or I would send it. I have a strong objection to sending my own likeness for the same reason. Some of the most valuable works the world has ever seen we know not who is the author of. It is a sacred religious scruple in myself. I do not wish my name to remain, nor my likeness.
That God alone should be remembered I wish.

If I could really give the lessons of my life to my countrywomen and yours (indeed I feel look upon us all as one nation)—the lessons of my mistakes as well as of the rest—I would; but for this there is no time. I would only say, work—work in silence at first, in silence for years—it will not be time wasted. Perhaps in all your life it will be the time you will afterwards find to have been best spent, and it is very certain that without it you will be no worker. You will not produce one "perfect work," but only a botch in the service of God.

Pray believe me, my dear sir, with great truth, ever your faithful servant,

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

Have you read Baker's "Sources of the Nile," where he says he was more like a dog than an explorer. That is much my case, and I believe that of all who have to do any unusual work. And I would especially guard young ladies from fancying themselves like lady superiors, with an obsequious following of disciples; if they undertake any great work.

A NEW EXCITEMENT IN ENGLAND.—In the lake country in England there is a ruin called Dilston Castle, once the seat of the Earl of Derwentwater. A lady claiming to be Countess of Derwentwater has just arrived at this castle with a retinue of servants and a wagon load of chattels, has fitted up temporary quarters among the ruins and announces her intention to abide henceforth in the baronial castle of her ancestors. She is a singular person, at-tires herself in an Austrian military uniform, wears a sword by her side, and defies the lawyers who have sought to eject her. It happened, unfortunately for her pretensions, that the dead Earl in whose name this queer Countess claims the property, was attainted of treason and beheaded on Tower Hill after the rebellion of 1715; his blood thus legally corrupted, his estates were confiscated and granted by the Crown to the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital, in whose possession they still remain, and who derives no inconsiderable part of their revenue therefrom. Some of the London papers insist that the new Countess is "mad as a March hare," and all agree that a curious suit of law will follow. But if "Amelia, Countess of Derwentwater," is insane, there is method in her madness, for she has certainly taken possession of the property in a business-like fashion.

The St. Louis Republican publishes an abstract of the will of the late Mr. Isaac Walker, of that city. Mr. W. was a former Baltimore-an, and since his removal to St. Louis, many years ago had accumulated a very large amount of property in that city and New York. It is said to have left an estate valued at several millions of dollars. His will, after providing for the payment of all his debts and the maintenance of his wife, gives one-eighth of his valuable estate to his relatives.

CITY ITEMS.

GERMAN HAND-KNIT JACKETS, GUERNSEY FROCKS, Germantown Jackets, Monkey Jackets, heavy Undershirts and Drawers, Woolen Overshirts, Red Flannel Over and Undershirts, Kersey Weather-proof Overcoats, and Rubber and Oil Proof Garments, at George W. Henning, No.

To use economy is advisable at all times, and that there is such in buying the best, as regards wearing apparel, like everything else is generally conceded. We would therefore recommend to our friends DEALHAM'S well known Clothing Store, 108 King street. He has surely the best ready-made Clothing ever before brought to this city. By buying of him you can save much on merchant tailor's prices, and get your garments equally as good in every respect as well in material as in make. In consideration of the fact that you will surely find Deaham's cheaper than the cheapest. Give him a call at 108 King street. oct 16

OUR FRIEND, HENRY STRAUSS, who is always obliging and accommodating, begs leave to inform his friends and the public in general that he has returned home again, after an absence of two weeks up North. We can say with pleasure that after looking through his well selected stock of Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Boots and Shoes, Trunks, Valises, Satchels, etc., one cannot leave his establishment without purchasing. He has also made an addition to his store in the way of a wholesale room, where he would be pleased to have his numerous friends and acquaintances call on him. HENRY STRAUSS, No.

oct 22-11

WELCOME HOME.—Our friend Deaham has returned from New York, where he has purchased and had made to order the largest and finest stock of Clothing and Gents' Furnishing Goods ever before brought to this city. We do not hesitate to recommend him even to those of our friends who, so far, have had all their garments made by merchant tailors. He has, indeed, as fine and as well made. His stock of Furnishing Goods comprises Undershirts and Drawers of Silk, Cassimere, Lamb's Wool, &c., &c., from $5 to $50; the best of British and Merino Socks, &c., &c. His stock of Travelling Equipment cannot be surpassed, and his variety is so numerous to mention from the best of Sole Leather Trunks and Valises and Leather Bags to the cheapest article. Remember the number of Deaham's store, 108, King street.

or may be, offered by agents in this city.

I have introduced into my Brewery the new method of brewing by steam, which is preferable to the old mode, and for that reason, I flatter myself that I am fully prepared to meet every expectation by giving the community an Ale, superior to anything manufactured elsewhere in this country.
